

Irvington Honors Lord

The Irvington Village Board honoring the memory of Arthur Lord, who for many years prior to his death a few weeks ago was the village historian and who was active in civic and patriotic affairs, is having a suitable resolution prepared.

The resolution will be framed and hung in the Town Hall and copies will be sent to Mr. Lord's sister, Mrs. John Henry Cushman of Bennington, Vt., and brother, Frank H. Lord of Nyack, N. Y.

Mr. Lord died at his home on Aug. 9, Monday night of this week was the first time the Village Board had met since before that date. Mayor Kramer, commenting after the Board had voted to have the resolutions prepared, said in part, "Arthur Lord did a terrific amount of good for the village of Irvington and his work will be long remembered." The other member of the Board agreed, recalling that Mr. Lord was always ready to come forth and help in every way.

rooms where patients will be under constant observation and care during the hours following an operation. Accommodations for 50 surgical patients in comfortable private, semi-private and four-bed rooms will serve adequately the needs of the area.

The fourth floor will be devoted entirely to maternity patients with labor rooms, delivery rooms, nurseries, formula rooms, and every modern facility to protect the health of mothers and babies.

Funds on Hand

Mr. Sutphen stated that from funds presently held by the Tarrytown and Ossining Hospital Associations together with the conditional grants of $500,000 from the James Foundation and $800,000 from the Rockefeller family and other sources, it was estimated that approximately $3,200,000 would be available for the project.

"Thus, a minimum of $1,000,000 must be raised in the area the hospital will serve," he asserted. "Both the Rockefeller and James grants are contingent on the balance being pledged by January of 1953," he added.

The $1,000,000 campaign will be launched at a Sponsors' Dinner on next Monday evening, Sept. 22, at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. Dr. Joseph E. Hughes, president of the County Trust Company and general chairman of the Building Fund drive, will preside and introduce the committee chairman for the campaign as well as the two hospital presidents, Sylvester J. Balassi of Tarrytown and Walter L. Johnson of Ossining.

organizational representatives and individuals at 8 o'clock Monday night in the Tarrytown YMCA. Because of the multiplicity of organizations in the community and the many recent changes in officers, she pointed out, it has been impossible to be sure that every group has received an official in-itation. She urged once more that all those willing to support the U. N. Day project attend the next meeting and participate in the planning.

directors at Schenectady next month.

One reason G. E. sought the Mount Pleasant site was said to be its accessibility to the Westchester County Airport across the reservoir at Rye Lake where the company would keep up to 10 executive-type airplanes and to the Harmon station of the New York Central where stops are made by all through trains which executives would use in their trips around the country.

Home Purchased in 1900

The Brace property was acquired about 1900 by the Children's Aid Society and was used as a referral spot to place city boys on farms in the Valhalla vicinity for farm training and experience. When that policy changed about 1937, Brace was used as a temporary home for Negro boys from New York, prior to their being placed in foster homes. Since 1937 the home has not been used.

a fast rate of speed on South Broadway, over the line and more than a mile into Irvington where he overtook them.

Seized His Arm

He gave the driver of the first car, Thomas L. Tippins of 240 South Seventh Avenue, Mount Vernon, a summons, charging him with speeding. But in the case of Johnson, as he proceeded to write out a summons, Johnson seized his right arm several times interfering with his writing and when he told Johnson he was definitely getting a summons the man called him a vile name and seized his right arm and shoved him about as he shoved him against the open door and onto the seat of the police car.

The officer then seized Johnson and shoved him into the police car placing him under arrest, took him to police headquarters in Irvington and fled the third degree assault charge before Acting Judge Arthur Connick.

Drew Club

Johnson's attorney, Harold Wood of Mount Vernon questioned Zastenchik on the incidents contained in the complaint asking him if he was afraid of Johnson and the officer answered that he was not afraid of him alone. Asked if he drew his gun from his holster, the officer replied he did not and when asked if he drew his blackjack, he said he did after Johnson shoved him against the car door and into the front seat.

At the close of the cross examination of the officer, Wood moved that the information signed by Zastenchik charging his client with assault in the third degree be dismissed, contending that "the people had failed to make out a case of assault in the third degree." Judge Norris denied the motion.

Friend On Stand

Wood then put Tippins, a friend of Johnson on the stand and he told how they were driving south on the highway in their cars and the officer halted him in Irvington and Johnson pulled up ahead in his car and stopped. He went on to tell that Zastenchik took his (Tippins') license and then Johnson's. He contended the officer pulled a gun as he ran up to the Johnson car.

Tippins also claimed that the officer drew a blackjack as he was talking with Johnson and that the latter seized the officer's arms so that he could not hit him. He maintained that the tear in the shoulder of the sleeve of the officer's uniform was not as big when they first went to headquarters as it was after the officer went out and returned later. He maintained that he did not see Johnson lunge at the officer.

Had Been to Picnic

Herbert A. McDevitt, Tarrytown village attorney cross-examined Tippins who admitted they were on their way back from a picnic at Indian Point and drew from him an admission that he had been speeding when the officer stopped them and that he had been fined yesterday in Tarrytown Court where he pleaded guilty. Tippins testified that as the officer was writing a summons for Johnson he suddenly drew a blackjack. Wood in rebuttal drew an answer from Tippins that Johnson

Heck Speaks To Chamber

Lincoln Heck, past president and currently a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the Tarrytowns and Irvington, was the principal speaker at a luncheon held Tuesday by the Ossining Chamber of Commerce in the Rainbow Restaurant.

Mr. Heck, who is manager of the Tarrytown office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company serving communities between Croton and Hastings, praised the progressive program being undertaken by the Ossining Chamber, of which he is now a member.

His talk was based on long experience in public work, including that of conducting a business clinic and purchasers' survey in cooperation with the New York State Department of Commerce in 1945. He has also been extremely active in community projects such as Community Chest, United Nations Week, 1948, and church affairs.

Heck did not put his hands on the officer until he reached for a blackjack.

Adolph Johns of New York City, who was riding in Johnson's car with a number of others, contended the officer was going to strike Johnson as the man was asking him not to give him a summons.

Johnson testifying in his own behalf contended he pleaded with the officer not to give him a ticket, admitting that he knew he was speeding. As he was asking for a break he contended further, the officer told him "I am going to take you down," and he shoved him into the car and took him to headquarters. He denied using profane language to the officer. He denied also he struck the officer maintaining he seized his arms only when the officer drew a blackjack.

Patrolman Peter A. Gorey of the Irvington Police called to the stand, contradicted the suggestions of the witnesses for Johnson that the rip in the sleeve of the officers shirt was not as big when they first went to headquarters as it was 20 minutes later after he had gone out and returned. Gorey looking over the rip last night said it appeared even smaller than when he first noticed it.

McDevitt in summing up before the jury maintained a perfect case of assault had been made out stressing that Johnson seizing the officer definitely committed an assault and he cited too that Johnson had a number of his friends with him against the officer. Wood maintained Johnson only acted to protect himself when he feared he was going to get a beating.

The jury was composed of Mitchell Vincent, foreman; John M. McKee, Carrol Puciatto, Eugene Umans, Ernest Altgelt and Ronald Morganstern. The trial held in the Village Board rooms drew a large crowd.

MAYER RAPS D. A.'S OFFICE

IRVINGTON—Charging the District Attorney's office with a "wait till the crime comes in" policy, Michael F. Mayer, Democratic candidate for that office last night told a meeting of the Greenburgh Democratic Committee, that he will, if elected, "push investigations into all fields of criminal activity, and particularly to search out any links between big-time gambling and law enforcement agencies."
