

American Bishop Appointed World Head Of Anglicans

SEATTLE — The American prelate appointed to a new and powerful international post in the Anglican community is a tall, gaunt bishop with a premonition of butterflies in his stomach.

The Rev. Stephen F. Bayne Jr. will take over of the 40-million-member worldwide communion, a post created to draw more closely together the 15 self-governing national churches that compose the Anglican community.

For 12 years Bishop Bayne, 51-ty, has been the Episcopal bishop of the Olympia diocese of Western Washington. His voice has become increasingly important among the world's religious leaders. Last fall he was one of those considered for presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Weeks of Indecision

In a pastoral letter read in the parishes of his diocese, Bishop Bayne told of his weeks of indecision regarding acceptance of the post.

"Those of you who wondered what happened to the bishop's diary this month will know how it was that I could not write my usual loving foolishness, with a stomach full of lead."

"The lead is gone, now—I dare say to be replaced by butterflies in due course—because I have made the choice."

During his 26 years as a churchman, butterflies have rarely bothered the bishop. He has been in the forefront of local, state and national controversies and is considered one of the most quoted prelates in the country.

Older Children Remain

Bishop Bayne and his wife, Lucie, will be accompanied to London by their son, Bruce, eleven, youngest of the five Bayne children.

The other children, Stephen III, twenty-three, Philip, twenty-one, Duncan, eighteen, and Lydia, seventeen will remain here.

FOR FIFTH TIME

Dobbs Ferry To Vote On School Tomorrow

DOBBS FERRY — A fifth proposition "to solve the problem of our tightly over-crowded elementary schools facilities and do so economically," the Board of Education reports, will be voted upon tomorrow by the School District Electorate. Polls will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., to decide the outcome of this $1,050,000 proposal.

"Except for our individual votes, our job is done," Trustee Henry W. Chapin, board president, asserted.

"During the last 10 months your board has studied the educational needs of the community and investigated every possible way of meeting these needs," Mr. Chapin said. "We have worked closely with architects through more than 20 sets of preliminary plans to assure the best, most economical building for the proposition. We have made an energetic effort to tell all the voters exactly what their ballots will mean."

"It now rests with you and your neighbors to decide on the merits of what we have done," the president said in a message at a public meeting last Tuesday night. The proposed elementary school is a fully equipped, one-story building of fire resistant construction, according to the board. Trustees noted that it received full approval of the State Department of Education "in record time."

The board described the structure, which would occupy a site on the old Franklin Q. Brown Estate on Valgrove Ave., as follows: "the building consists of two wings containing a total of 14 classrooms and three kindergartens, and a section containing administration facilities, a library, a kitchen and a combination physical education unit (which may be divided into two units by a folding partition), cafeteria and assembly room."

"The combination room is equipped with a platform-type stage which may be used with one of the units, or both, when the folding partition is concealed. The administration area consists of necessary offices, a teacher's room, small conference room and health suite."

"Materials were selected on the basis of sound construction, low maintenance cost and attractiveness. They include exterior face brick, 20 year bonded composition roofing, interior walls and partitions of painted lightweight concrete block and aluminum door frames and windows. All ceilings are fire resistant acoustical tile. There is terrazzo flooring in the lobby and corridors and asphalt tile flooring in the classroom and administration areas."

Over the weekend the Board of Education mailed a brochure to every qualified voter describing the proposed new school and detailing the growing problem of elementary pupils on double-session or part-time classes. Today there are 226 children in this category. Trustees Chapin, John A. Creed and Michael Fritz have unqualifiedly endorsed the new school proposition. The other three trustees, Henry Witt Jr., George Robinson and George Speyer reminded the voters in a mimeographed letter, also mailed to voters over the weekend, that they never recommended the new school—but "we did vote to bring the bond issue before the people for their decision and their decision alone."

105 Years Ago Otis Built His First Elevator ...and Yonkers' First Bank Was Built

One hundred and five years ago when the Otis Elevator Co. was just getting started, a prime need of this growing village was fulfilled with the opening of the Yonkers Savings Bank.

Before this it was necessary for the good citizens of Yonkers to travel all the way to

New York City to transact any banking business.

105 years later, the Yonkers Savings Bank, still recognizing its great responsibility, is continually expanding its facilities and services to better provide for the financial needs of our rapidly growing community.
