Dear Friends:

I am pleased to extend my warmest greetings to all who are gathered here for the 28th Annual Hofstra Gala, and it is with great pleasure that I extend my congratulations to your honoree and my good friend David Mack.

You note that David is a businessman, philanthropist, alumnus and Secretary of the Hofstra University Board of Trustees. To me, David is so much more. David is an original. He has devoted his life to service and used his wealth to help others. He epitomizes one of the most important and, in today's world, one of the most forgotten character traits ... "loyalty." I am grateful to be counted as one, among the many, he has stood by loyally over the years, including his beloved Hofstra.

Through the years, David has clearly left his mark on Long Island and Palm Beach. He generously shares his time, talent and treasure with many organizations, including Hofstra. David has made our community stronger and has touched the lives of so many people through his philanthropic and charitable activities. You could not have chosen a more deserving honoree.

Hofstra University is one of Long Island's stellar universities and the proceeds from this event will make it possible for so many young people to get the educational background that is necessary to succeed. One need only look to Long Island's leading businesses to find a Hofstra graduate. This is your legacy, and it continues to grow year after year.

Again, I offer my sincere congratulations to my friend David Mack and hope that you all enjoy this wonderful evening.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely,
