Hayley Feibel

Hayley Feibel is a senior and honor student at Harborfields High School. She started attending the Huntington Jewish Center Religious School in fourth grade after spending four years at a private Jewish day school. Hayley was proud to receive the honor of Judaic Scholar in her final year of religious school, and she is the only one from her class to complete SHMA Hebrew High School.

Huntington Jewish Center is Hayley's spiritual home and she has spent much time there providing community service and helping out when she can. She has provided babysitting services during Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, and during the synagogue's Friday Night Live services, as well as run booths at the Hanukkah Happening and Purim Carnival. For two years, she provided classroom assistance at the HJC religious school, working with the youngest children. Hayley has also helped to make sandwiches for the homeless at the Jewish Nutritional Network, and participated for several years in the Huntington Interfaith Homeless Initiative.

As an active member of the Huntington Jewish Center USY chapter, Hayley has served on the board for the last three years, and most recently became responsible for designing activities that highlight Israel. What she most enjoys about participating as a Board member is welcoming new members, coming up with new activities, and running and participating in fundraising events for the group.

In her spare time, Hayley enjoys tennis, working out at the gym, and enjoying family vacations. While Hayley is undecided about her future career, she has a strong interest in the sciences, particularly forensics. She hopes to continue providing community service next year in college, especially in a way that will benefit children and the homeless.

Hayley would like to congratulate Arthur Perler on his well-deserved honor. She also wants to thank the Men's Club of Huntington Jewish Center for all they do for the synagogue, and for this special honor.
