Dear Mitch,

The seventy-fifth anniversary of Camp Ramah is a milestone deeply indebted to your stellar leadership. During the past two decades and more at the local and national levels you advocated and administered its remarkable growth, vital solidarity and pioneering diversification. Still the crucial reservoir of young recruits for Conservative Judaism, the network of Ramah Camps is a federated system ever in need of sagacity, vision and sensitivity at the helm. And it is that precious sense of unity that fostered the growth in camps and campers, in year-round programs and expanding links to Israel. Ramah has remained the gold standard of Jewish camping in America because it continues to give campers, staff and Israeli shlichim a lived experience of authentic Judaism. Mitch, your steadfastness, prudence and hard work have proven yet again that serious Jewish education can still be a life-altering combination of substance and pleasure, friendship and inspiration in the free and open society in which we are blessed to live.

In esteem and gratitude,

Ismar Schorsch
