Dear Friends and Honorees:

The Spotlight on Schechter Gala 2019 provides the ideal backdrop to commend tonight's honorees along with the school administrators and supporters for providing an excellent academic institution for students in grades K-12. It is truly a team effort that includes an exceptional academic staff and dedicated students striving for excellence.

Tonight, the Schechter School of Long Island will honor individuals for their extraordinary service to the community and the school. Amy & Dan Kamensky, Aimee & Bram Weber, Schechter "Tony" Award Recipient Joan Cohen and retiring faculty members Howard Levine and Judith May have all left their indelible marks upon the community at large, as well as the school and its students. These visionaries deserve special recognition for their incredible legacy of accomplishments, most notably, supporting the school and its ongoing effort to provide the finest education for our young people.

The Schechter School of Long Island has been a blessing to students, families, staff and the community at large. Thank you to everyone here this evening, especially our esteemed honorees, for making lasting contributions that have allowed the school to shine a light on excellence, the community and essential Jewish values that are instilled in its students every day.

Yours truly,
