Dear Friends,

It is my great honor to join with the Westchester Jewish Center (WJC) in celebration of their Spring Gala and in congratulating their honorees. Westchester Jewish Center is a conservative, traditional, egalitarian synagogue in Mamaroneck with approximately 500 member families. They are a welcoming and supportive community that provides a wide array of opportunities of religious observance, Jewish learning and growth.

I extend my sincere congratulations to your exemplary honorees collectively and individually: Judy and Howard Zweig, Sharon Weinstock and Jacques Steinberg, and Glenna Lee. These friends and congregants of the Westchester Jewish Center are the embodiment of service to others. They have contributed time, talents, skills, effort, and experience to the Center and the surrounding community.

Judy and Howard Zweig has been members and friends of WJC for almost thirty (30) years, serving on the membership committee, establishing the J.O.Y. (Just Older Youth) club and many others. They have both lent their creativity, energy and organizational skills to make the J.O.Y. club a success.

Sharon Weinstock and Jacques Steinberg has been dedicated and devoted members and friends of WJC for many years. She has a full-time law career and a rich and athletic family life, however in her "spare time" she attends WJC programs, events, can be seen at the Koslowe Gallery, hiking through Sheldrake, at Shabbat Yoga, or serving as a Shabbat Greeter. Jacques' activism at WJC includes but is not limited to: Being on the Rabbi Transition Committee and the strategic planning committee, study service and renewal service, founding editor of "Voices" magazine and they both co-chaired the grand mitzvah project in 2019. They both continue to the uplift the center's best values in furtherance of its salient missions.

Glenna Lee is emblematic of a great humanitarian. She is a people person who makes wonderful, heartfelt, and meaningful things happen. She is a creative and spiritual being, whose Sisterhood leadership at WJC creates inspiring programs bringing people together for the most magical experiences.

Your esteemed honorees, are the personification of a lifetime of commitment and dedication to Westchester Jewish Center. Their continued and persistent selfless devotion to helping others has significantly impacted not only the center, but also its congregants and the community.

Best wishes to Westchester Jewish Center and may you have for a wonderful Spring Gala!

Sincerely,

George Latimer
